RIPE Labs Content on Sustainability

Sustainability is Good for the Internet (and Business too)

Michael Oghia — 23 Jun 2017

What Do We Do With E-Waste?

The headlines are raising awareness about the plastic soup that's clogging up our oceans but there's another problem much closer to home for much of the RIPE ...

Learn from other Communities?

- “Engaging with Climate Change: Possible Steps for (ACM) SIGPLAN”
  - Association for Computing Machinery
  - Special Interest Group on Programming Languages
- “a clear responsibility to understand and explore ways of reducing the costs of its conference-focused approach to promoting exchange of ideas”

The screenshot shows a web browser window with the URL www.sigplan.org/Resources/Climate/. The page title is "SIGPLAN and Climate Change". Under the heading "Useful Links:", there are three bullet points: "ACM's new (as of 2019) Carbon Offset Program", "ACM's CO2 Footprint Calculator for Conferences", and "acm-climate mailing list". Under the heading "Resources", there are four bullet points: "ACM Conferences and the Cost of Carbon (a post on the SIGPLAN blog)", "Engaging with Climate Change: Possible Steps for SIGPLAN (white paper)", "Carbon Offsets: An Overview for Scientific Societies (survey)", and "Flying Less in Academia: A Resource Guide". The main content area is titled "SIGPLAN's ad hoc Climate Committee" and contains a paragraph of text explaining the committee's purpose and members.
